

Liz Wolf
Sculptor

“Shapeshifter”

I see hawks perched high in a tree or flying endless circles in the sky observing their surroundings with extraordinary vision. The hawk teaches me to become like them and pay close attention to all that surrounds me, to see my boundless world from a bird’s-eye view.